Newspapers.com Search Papers Clippings Topics My Clippings trollieyproblems

1911-05-10 | Street Railways Disorders; Evidence Given of Long List of Offences; Workers on Strike

Tags: Connecticut Valley Street Railway Labor Organized Labor Strike Trolleymen's Union

Delete Edit Share Save to Ancestry

Greenfield Daily Recorder
Greenfield, Massachusetts - Wed, May 10, 1911
Page 1

Topics to Browse:
Lizzie Borden
U.S. Census
Haymarket Riot
Amelia Earhart
Amistad Case
Spring-Heeled Jack

CLIPPED BY trollieyproblems - Copied: 20 seconds ago Edited: 23 seconds ago

VOL. XII. NO. 19.

STREET RAILWAY'S DISORDERS

Evidence Given of Long List of Offences

Attempt is to Fix Responsibility upon the Strikers—Bearing before S. S. Tatt Now Reserved in Northampton.

The outlook of the acts of violence on the Connecticut Valley street railway during the period of its strike after three days' before S. S. Tatt of Springfield, as special master, at the court house, was continued where further evidence was offered as to numerous acts which is the effort of the street railway company to fix upon the strikers.

This morning the attorneys and company officials went over the line of the street railway in a special car, first from Northampton to Amherst and return and then up the river as far as Hatfield. The hearing was resumed in Northampton at 2.

The company in its bill asks the superior court to restrain P. J. O'Brien of Springfield, John J. Hayes of Holyoke, Lewis Ward, J. J. Gaucher, Joseph Lafleur, Carroll A. Holmes and Earl A. Ingalls of Hadley, W. E. Fitzgerald, Joseph P. Shockey, Joseph E. Murray, Robert F. Burns, Russell E. McGrath, Carl H. Decker, Hamilton K. Kelley and Stanley Parks, all of Northampton from trespassing on the railroad property and interfering with its tracks, cars and wires.

All the men except O'Brien, Kane and Fitzgerald are members of the Northampton Trolleymen's Union. Mr. O'Brien is president of the Springfield union, Mr. Kane holds the same position with the Holyoke union, and Mr. Fitzgerald is the representative of the national association of trolley men.

F. L. Greene of this town and John C. Hammond of Northampton appeared for the railway company and Samuel H. Valey of Watertown and William R. Hayes of Springfield for the trolleymen's union.

Monday morning the first witness heard was William C.H. Smead of this town, motorman for the company, who told about finding a plank on the rails in Hatfield wedges on the rails in the vicinity of Hooph hill and of his car getting crash on Laurel park hill with two large stones hanging from the fender. He said he had not seen anyone he saw the men, but found the rails greased. With him in the vestibule were Detective LeClair of the Pinkerton agency, Edward Whalen and a chap named Lawrence, the two men being regular employees of the company. Whalen jumped off when the car began to slide. The stones came into the front vestibule, smashing the middle windows. Special told of meeting Edward McGrath, one of the strikers, who said to him, "Isn't your hair getting a little gray from dodging bricks?" The witness replied that it might be, but he had not been dodging bricks.

Charles W. Clapp, assistant superintendent of the company, testified to the business needs of the company, explaining the reports turned in by the men on their work. He described the relations between the company and the men who left the employ.

William O. Caldwell of this town, conductor, testified to occasions when his car ran over wooden wedges and was partially derailed near Hooph hill. On another occasion he said his car ran over an iron spike. Once when he was at the end of the route in Northampton, Edward McGrath and others in a group on the sidewalk, shouted to him, "Are you going home with us, fellows." Caldwell refused and epithets were applied to him. Another night a crowd threw fruit at the car

Yesterday morning Edward Whalen, conductor for the company, told of the night when he rode with Motorman Smead down the greased tracks on Laurel park hill. With Goodson a student at Amherst college, he was doing detective work under the direction of the Pinkerton man, LeClair. The three hid in the underbrush near Laurel park junction for two hours or more and then took a car northward. When Whalen saw the stones on the car, he jumped off the car. LeClair and Goodson joined him a few moments afterward and the three shot under the Boston and Maine overpass. They saw three flashes above on the hill and gathered that someone had cut the trolley wire on the car spur. They ran through the fields to the park station on the steam road, hiding nearby. Soon afterward two men walked furiously by. One of the men in hiding had his revolver into the air, and the five was returned by the hiding men. No one was hurt. Whalen said that he as unable to say who the men were.

The witness could not tell who the men were. Whalen said that he had refused to join the union because Superintendent Clapp had done him a favor.

Edward Hanna, another student college man, who did spare work for the company, testified to his car being hit by a brick hurtling from the wires on North street in Northampton. Going back on the same trip his car was hit in nearly the same locality by a stone. Motorman O'Brien and Kane, the former of Springfield and the latter of Holyoke, endeavored to induce him to join the union, but he refused. He told Kane that he would use the money to pay his way through college, and Kane said that the union would put him through college. The witness told Kane that it would cost $500 a year, a sum Kane thought unreasonable. So the negotiations fell through.

Other witnesses yesterday were Deputy Sheriff D. H. Tilson of Amherst, was well over the measles when here, David E. Turner and George Parker of Greenfield, William Richmond of Turners Falls and Bernard Johnson of Amherst, all but Mr. Tilson being car companies for the company. They testified to various occasions when cars have met obstructions on the lines.

There was a slight delay at the opening of the hearing at 10.30 Friday on account of neither side having produced a stenographer. A delay of an hour was asked in order that one might be secured from Northampton. Mr. Tatt adjourned the hearing until 11.30 when F. L. Greene opened for the petitioners. Mr. Greene sketched the trouble between the street railway and its employes from the early part of February when the men left work until a short time ago. Letters were read showing the reasons for the issuance of their letters, showing the company notified them by letter that their services discharged. Mr. Greene described how efforts had been made by unknown persons to interfere with the running of cars upon the company's lines by removing rails, throwing wires crossing and cutting high tension lines, ripping trolley feed and telephone wires and the derailment and damaging of cars.

The first witness called by the petitioners was James A. Dorsey of Northampton, wire superintendent for the company. Mr. Dorsey went over in detail every wire trouble which the company experienced after the time of the strike, telling how long it took to repair the damage and how the work was discharged. Mr. Greene described interest in his description of the cutting of the high tension wire below South Deerfield, where the tracks of three men were found around the pole, one pair of footprints showing that the man was wearing a pair of climbing irons. On at the tracks, according to the witness, indicated that the man who made them "tood in" very noticeably.

Thomas Kosley of Hadley, a motorman, testified to the trouble he experienced in running the cars. There was a brick suspended from the trolley wire and the other a wooden wedge placed across the tracks. Both occasions were on North street in Northampton.

Saturday morning Clifford W. Ingalls of Hadley, a former track foreman for the company, was called to the stand. He testified to being the father of one of the respondents in the case, but denied any feeling of animosity toward the company. In response to a question from Attorney Hammond he said that he had never threatened Joseph Gerardin, one of the respondents, with a knife. He had advised Gerardin to quit the patrol work for the company. Under cross examination by Mr. Valey, he said that he left the employ of the company of his own free will and for the purpose of letting himself by starting in the grocery and meat business at Hadley.

Deputy Sheriffs Michael W. Carroll of Milton Falls and James H. Bridges of South Deerfield told of being on duty the night that the high tension line was cut near South Deerfield. They were upon the spot soon after the cut was made and noticed the footprints in the snow. The men who did the cutting had worn rubbers and had left the tracks in the snow. Mr. Bridges followed the tracks to a low dollar gold piece, greenbacks, china and glass, with the Mr. King and book for Mr. King also nice, easy drinking stuff, a letter and a box of photos from Mrs. King's youngest brother in Tonopah, Nev., and a shower of postcards.

Mrs. King was the daughter of Henry and Patty Clapp Smith of South Deerfield. She is one of seven sisters all living in this town, the youngest being 50 years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley Smith of Athol and S. V. King of Athol are her brothers, and four grandnieces, Carroll, Gertrude and Ernest Brown of Athol and Mrs. Lucy Smith of Athol.

Mrs. D. O. Chickering, of Enfield, spent several days in town last week with her sisters and nieces.

Twenty eight members of New Salem grange attended the Millers River grange of Orange Saturday evening.

Miss Louisa Sensabaugh spent a few days at her home in Colrain, returning Monday.

Two Years Out of Measles

Mrs. Charles Kenar has the sympathy of the community in her recent bereavement, both of her sons having died in less than two weeks from the measles. Mr. Charles Kenar was the employee of the Greenfield Electric Light company in Greenfield. Mrs. Kenar was Miss Louisa Sensabaugh and died in less than two weeks from the

NEW SALEM

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Rawson King

Mr. and Mrs. Rawson King quietly observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage at their home in Cooleyville, May 3. During the day and evening friends from Enfield, New Salem, Orange, Colrain and North Prescott called to congratulate them on the occasion. Mr. King is the oldest citizen of that municipality. They were kindly remembered by many friends, among them a few dollar gold piece, greenbacks, china and glass, with the Mr. King and book for Mr. King also nice, easy drinking stuff, a letter and a box of photos from Mrs. King's youngest brother in Tonopah, Nev., and a shower of postcards.

Mrs. King was the only child of Elphalet and Polly Vaughn King and has always lived in big old house. Mrs. King was the daughter of Henry and Patty Clapp Smith of South Deerfield. She is one of seven sisters all living in this town, the youngest being 50 years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley Smith of Athol and S. V. King of Athol are her brothers, and four grandnieces, Carroll, Gertrude and Ernest Brown of Athol and Mrs. Lucy Smith of Athol.

Mrs. D. O. Chickering, of Enfield, spent several days in town last week with her sisters and nieces.

Twenty eight members of New Salem grange attended the Millers River grange of Orange Saturday evening.

Miss Louisa Sensabaugh spent a few days at her home in Colrain, returning Monday.

Two Years Out of Measles

Mrs. Charles Kenar has the sympathy of the community in her recent bereavement, both of her sons having died in less than two weeks from the

Search the largest online newspaper archive

Search a keyword or name...

View All Clippings

Hide Article Text (QCR) • Source Citation

XII. NO. 19. STREET RAILWAY'S DISORDERS Evidence Given of Long List of Offences Attempt is to Fix Responsibility upon the Strikers—Hearing before S. S.

Tatt Now Reserved to Northampton. The recital of the acts of violence on the Connecticut Valley street railway during the period of the strike after three days before S. S. Tatt of Springfield, as special master, at the court house, was continued this morning in Northampton, where further evidence was offered as to numerous acts which it is the effort of the street railway company to fix upon the strikers.

This morning the attorneys and company officials went over the line of the street railway in a special car, first from Northampton to Amherst and return and then up the river as far as Hatfield. The hearing was resumed in Northampton at 2.

The company in its bill asks the superior court to restrain P. J. O'Brien of Springfield, John J. Hayes of Holyoke, Lewis Ward, J. J. Gaucher, Joseph Lafleur, Carroll A. Holmes and Earl A. Ingalls of Hadley, W. E. Fitzgerald, Joseph P. Shockey, Joseph E. Murray, Robert F. Burns, Russell E. McGrath, Carl H. Decker, Hamilton K. Kelley and Stanley Parks, all of Northampton from trespassing on the railroad property and interfering with its tracks, cars and wires.

All the men except O'Brien, Kane and Fitzgerald are members of the Northampton Trolleymen's Union. Mr. O'Brien is president of the Springfield union, Mr. Kane holds the same position with the Holyoke union, and Mr. Fitzgerald is the representative of the national association of trolley men.

F. L. Greene of this town and John C. Hammond of Northampton appeared for the railway company and Samuel H. Valey of Watertown and William R. Hayes of Springfield for the trolleymen's union.

Monday morning the first witness heard was William C.H. Smead of this town, motorman for the company, who told about finding a plank on the rails in Hatfield wedges on the rails in the vicinity of Hooph hill and of his car getting crash on Laurel park hill with two large stones hanging from the fender. He said he had not seen anyone he saw the men, but found the rails greased. With him in the vestibule were Detective LeClair of the Pinkerton agency, Edward Whalen and a chap named Lawrence, the two men being regular employees of the company. Whalen jumped off when the car began to slide. The stones came into the front vestibule, smashing the middle windows. Special told of meeting Edward McGrath, one of the strikers, who said to him, "Isn't your hair getting a little gray from dodging bricks?" The witness replied that it might be, but he had not been dodging bricks.

Charles W. Clapp, assistant superintendent of the company, testified to the business needs of the company, explaining the reports turned in by the men on their work. He described the relations between the company and the men who left the employ.

William O. Caldwell of this town, conductor, testified to occasions when his car ran over wooden wedges and was partially derailed near Hooph hill. On another occasion he said his car ran over an iron spike. Once when he was at the end of the route in Northampton, Edward McGrath and others in a group on the sidewalk, shouted to him, "Are you going home with us, fellows." Caldwell refused and epithets were applied to him. Another night a crowd threw fruit at the car

Yesterday morning Edward Whalen, conductor for the company, told of the night when he rode with Motorman Smead down the greased tracks on Laurel park hill. With Goodson a student at Amherst college, he was doing detective work under the direction of the Pinkerton man, LeClair. The three hid in the underbrush near Laurel park junction for two hours or more and then took a car northward. When Whalen saw the stones on the car, he jumped off the car. LeClair and Goodson joined him a few moments afterward and the three shot under the Boston and Maine overpass. They saw three flashes above on the hill and gathered that someone had cut the trolley wire on the car spur. They ran through the fields to the park station on the steam road, hiding nearby. Soon afterward two men walked furiously by. One of the men in hiding had his revolver into the air, and the five was returned by the hiding men. No one was hurt. Whalen said that he as unable to say who the men were.

The witness could not tell who the men were. Whalen said that he had refused to join the union because Superintendent Clapp had done him a favor.

Edward Hanna, another student college man, who did spare work for the company, testified to his car being hit by a brick hurtling from the wires on North street in Northampton. Going back on the same trip his car was hit in nearly the same locality by a stone. Motorman O'Brien and Kane, the former of Springfield and the latter of Holyoke, endeavored to induce him to join the union, but he refused. He told Kane that he would use the money to pay his way through college, and Kane said that the union would put him through college. The witness told Kane that it would cost $500 a year, a sum Kane thought unreasonable. So the negotiations fell through.

Other witnesses yesterday were Deputy Sheriff D. H. Tilson of Amherst, was well over the measles when here, David E. Turner and George Parker of Greenfield, William Richmond of Turners Falls and Bernard Johnson of Amherst, all but Mr. Tilson being car companies for the company. They testified to various occasions when cars have met obstructions on the lines.

There was a slight delay at the opening of the hearing at 10.30 Friday on account of neither side having produced a stenographer. A delay of an hour was asked in order that one might be secured from Northampton. Mr. Tatt adjourned the hearing until 11.30 when F. L. Greene opened for the petitioners. Mr. Greene sketched the trouble between the street railway and its employes from the early part of February when the men left work until a short time ago. Letters were read showing the reasons for the issuance of their letters, showing the company notified them by letter that their services discharged. Mr. Greene described how efforts had been made by unknown persons to interfere with the running of cars upon the company's lines by removing rails, throwing wires crossing and cutting high tension lines, ripping trolley feed and telephone wires and the derailment and damaging of cars.

The first witness called by the petitioners was James A. Dorsey of Northampton, wire superintendent for the company. Mr. Dorsey went over in detail every wire trouble which the company experienced after the time of the strike, telling how long it took to repair the damage and how the work was discharged. Mr. Greene described interest in his description of the cutting of the high tension wire below South Deerfield, where the tracks of three men were found around the pole, one pair of footprints showing that the man was wearing a pair of climbing irons. On at the tracks, according to the witness, indicated that the man who made them "tood in" very noticeably.

Thomas Kosley of Hadley, a motorman, testified to the trouble he experienced in running the cars. There was a brick suspended from the trolley wire and the other a wooden wedge placed across the tracks. Both occasions were on North street in Northampton.

Saturday morning Clifford W. Ingalls of Hadley, a former track foreman for the company, was called to the stand. He testified to being the father of one of the respondents in the case, but denied any feeling of animosity toward the company. In response to a question from Attorney Hammond he said that he had never threatened Joseph Gerardin, one of the respondents, with a knife. He had advised Gerardin to quit the patrol work for the company. Under cross examination by Mr. Valey, he said that he left the employ of the company of his own free will and for the purpose of letting himself by starting in the grocery and meat business at Hadley.

Deputy Sheriffs Michael W. Carroll of Milton Falls and James H. Bridges of South Deerfield told of being on duty the night that the high tension line was cut near South Deerfield. They were upon the spot soon after the cut was made and noticed the footprints in the snow. The men who did the cutting had worn rubbers and had left the tracks in the snow. Mr. Bridges followed the tracks to a low dollar gold piece, greenbacks, china and glass, with the Mr. King and book for Mr. King also nice, easy drinking stuff, a letter and a box of photos from Mrs. King's youngest brother in Tonopah, Nev., and a shower of postcards.

Mrs. King was the only child of Elphalet and Polly Vaughn King and has always lived in big old house. Mrs. King was the daughter of Henry and Patty Clapp Smith of South Deerfield. She is one of seven sisters all living in this town, the youngest being 50 years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley Smith of Athol and S. V. King of Athol are her brothers, and four grandnieces, Carroll, Gertrude and Ernest Brown of Athol and Mrs. Lucy Smith of Athol.

Mrs. D. O. Chickering, of Enfield, spent several days in town last week with her sisters and nieces.

Twenty eight members of New Salem grange attended the Millers River grange of Orange Saturday evening.

Miss Louisa Sensabaugh spent a few days at her home in Colrain, returning Monday.

Two Years Out of Measles

Mrs. Charles Kenar has the sympathy of the community in her recent bereavement, both of her sons having died in less than two weeks from the

United States - Massachusetts - Greenfield - Greenfield Daily Recorder - 1911 - May - 10 - Page 1
1911-05-10 | Street Railways Disorders; Evidence Given of Long List of Offences; Workers on Strike

Account
Gift Subscriptions
Help
Site Map
About
Fish Wrap—Official Blog
Affiliates
Content Providers
United States (English)
Light theme
Visit our other sites

© 2025 Newspapers.com™ by Ancestry®. All rights reserved. Terms and Conditions · Privacy Policy · CCPA Notice at Collection
Do Not Share or Sell My Personal Information

The names, logos, and other source identifying features of newspapers depicted in our database are the trademarks of their respective owners, and our use of newspaper content in the public domain or by private agreement does not imply any affiliation with, or endorsement by, the publishers of the newspaper titles that appear on our site. Newspapers.com makes these newspapers available for the purpose of historical research, and is not responsible for the content of any newspapers archived at our site.

Captured by FindThisPost: 20 September 2025, 13:13:35
https://getfindthat.com